FRATERNITIES TO GO

Committee of Secondary Schools Score University of Chicago.

SOME SEVERE NAMES USED

Principal of High School States That the Board of Education Should Prohibit Fraternities, as They Are Demoralizing.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Chicago school fraternities and societies were dealt a crushing blow yesterday when the committee of the secondary schools made its report, after three years' investigation, condemning the secret societies as fetid, comical, unsocial and of a degenerative influence. The report, which is considered the most thorough study ever made of the high school problem, was read by Principal Spencer A. Smith of the Wendell Phillips high school, at the nineteenth annual "Conference of the Academies and High Schools in Relation with the University of Chicago," in Haskell Hall. It was adopted unanimously. Over 400 high schools and preparatory institutions situated in nearly every state in the country, are enrolled in the association, and the doom of the "Prep" school Greek letter societies, which exist in the majority of the schools, was declared to have been marked by the conclusions reached. Some of the high school principals in suggesting ways and means to stamp out the evil, branded fraternity members with most severe names.

Principal E. V. Robinson of the Central High School of St. Paul, taking the stand that the Board of Education should prohibit fraternities rather than let parents work out the problem themselves, described the conditions in his school: "I have found that in my seven years' experience at Central High school, the fraternity has had a most degenerative influence," he said. "Boys belonging to fraternities, I have found, will lie, cheat, do anything to remain loyal to their societies. The fraternity has developed professional liars in my school."

GEORGIA SETS PACE.

Mills, Railroads and Skyscrapers the Visible Signs of Industrial Era

COLUMBUS, Nov. 17.—Encouraged by favorable labor conditions, a great influx of outside capital and almost unlimited natural resources, the industrial development now being wrought in the Southern states is nothing short of wonderful. In every part of Georgia can this increased activity be noticed. Columbus, where the falls of the Chattahoochee river furnish over 200,000 horse power, is one of the most striking examples of the South's industrial growth. Within the past year it has increased over 5,000 in population. There have been new industries formed and old ones merged with larger capital, involving a total new investment of nearly $5,000,000. Columbus, while formerly only a cotton center, is now surrounded by prosperous foundries, sugar cane mills, paper mills, and other large plants of every description. And there is room for many more. With the increase in the number of factories has come a tremendous railroad development to take care of the shipping. Instead of being in a railroad pocket, with its manufacturers at the mercy of one railroad, Columbus has become the center of a railroad boom with new lines going out in every direction. Three new roads to different gulf ports are now in course of construction. With a navigable waterway from Columbus to the gulf, the railroads must enter into competition with an all-water route to the central and western states. Savannah, Atlanta, Macon, Augusta, and Columbus are jumping from cities with less than 100,000 population to much larger figures. Where formerly one large office building was pointed out, there are now numbers of skyscrapers completed and others going up. All over the state water power companies are being organized to harness the power of the rivers, new electric light and gas companies are being formed, street car lines are being built, new railroads chartered and old ones extended. Factories can be seen going up in every village and hamlet, while public school buildings, agricultural colleges and technical schools are being erected to educate the children of the state.

TRIAL MARRIAGES.

Mrs. Parson Writes a Book Advocating This Doctrine.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A book containing many original ideas concerning family relations was published yesterday. Its author, Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons, daughter of Henry Clews and wife of Congressman Herbert Parsons. Mrs. Parsons is a doctor of philosophy and was a lecturer at Barnard College on sociological subjects for six years. Among other things Mrs. Parsons says: "It therefore will seem well from this point of view to encourage trial marriages, the relation to be entered into with a view to permanency, but with the privilege of breaking it if it proved unsuccessful, and in the absence of offspring, without suffering any great degree of public condemnation."

Mrs. Parsons' book, entitled "The Family," is intended for use as a college text book for sociological students who are especially interested in the subject of marriage, the family and parenthood.
